- Q. -- in a moment, but what kinds of limited recollections do you have right now?
- A. I recall -- I recall nothing prior to '96. The -- in 1996 I was involved with the approval of the loan to the Delaware Valley Operating Group, and thereafter save one breakfast with Dave Mc Connell.
  - Q. The CFO?
- A. Yeah. And I think Joe Dionisio or whatever his name was was there as well, and that was more a -- an introductory type of thing.

Save that, you know, my involvement was, you know, was nonexistent to my recollection until the -- until probably would have been early '98. Whenever things got into serious trouble. And then for a brief period of time I had some involvement, and then, you know, postbankruptcy, none.

- Q. What kinds of involvement did you have in the approval process to the loan to the Delaware Valley Group?
- A. I was simply a -- the final approving signature because of my level of credit authority.
- Q. Do you recall whether a committee process, a senior loan committee process, was still in place

- Q. Is that at the time of any potential offerings?
  - A. Yes.
  - Q. And do you recall when the last or the most recent audited financial statements -- or let me rephrase that.

Do you recall what was the date of the most recent financial statements for AHERF at the time of the approval?

- A. I do not. That would be in the approval document itself, but I don't recall.
- Q. And would you have reviewed, in connection with reviewing the approval document, just the most recent audited financial statements as opposed to the most recent financial statements, period?
- A. Customarily, our packages would include, you know, several years of audits, you know, including the most recent period for which audited statements had been received, and, you know, at least two, you know -- and typically two, you know, interim periods.
- Q. And the interim periods would typically be more recent than the audited statements?
- A. Yes. Thank you. They would be the most recent interim periods, you know, and would typically

Page 39

- at the time the loan to DVOG was made? 1
- 2 A. I don't, no.
  - Q. So you recall just at some point putting in a final signature to approve the loan?
    - A. Yes.
  - Q. Do you recall whether any presentation was made to you prior to your signing the loan or approving the loan via signature?
- A. What I recall was that I was presented with an offering memorandum as we call them, you know, and a very brief, very high-level explanation was given 12 to me by Dave Cook.

I had the offering in my hand, reviewed the -- as I always do, reviewed the financial statements 15 for an unqualified opinion, listened to the quality 16 of his story, you know, and based on the caliber of 17 the borrower as we knew it, signed the approval and 18 off we went.

- O. Did you have any responsibility for 19 20 monitoring the performance of any, you know, credits 21 that PNC had dealings with?
  - A. Not specifically, no.
- Q. You mentioned that you would always review 23
- financial statements for unqualified opinions? 24 25
  - A. Uh-huh.

1 be company-prepared.

Q. And would you review those most recent 2 internal or company-prepared statements as well as the audited statements? 4

A. Yes.

Q. Why would you review the internal most recent financial statements?

A. Customarily, you would look at that for trends, you know, because, you know, for instance, you know, if we were examining a company in November, 10 11 and it was a 12-31 year-end, we would have several quarters of activity, interim quarters, you know, 12 13 between the time the most recent audited statements 14 were given and the time of our decisioning, and if 15 the company had fallen off the table, we want to know 16 that.

- Q. And would you rely on those internal most recent financial statements as well as the audited financial statements in making a decision?
- A. You would save that the internal 20 21 statements, you know, will give you trends as to the business performance. The audited statements give 22 you a much more complete picture of such things as 23 internal controls, for instance --24
  - Q. Uh-huh.

Q. In addition to the approval of the loan to DVOG or in addition to the loan to DVOG, do you know of any other services that at that point in time PNC was providing to AHERF or its affiliates?

A. I believe that our PNC securities affiliate was providing some bond underwriting, I think. I'm not clear on that. I'm doing this from memory. And I believe we were providing some treasury management business. Operating accounts.

Q. Do you recall whether or what you and David Cook discussed at a very high level in connection with your review of the materials to approve the loan to DVOG?

A. I remember that we discussed the nature of 19 20 the transaction that was giving rise to the credit request. I'll also tell you that today I couldn't tell you what that was, but from my recollection. 22 23 But I know that we did discuss that.

We discussed the financial capacity of the 24 borrower, you know, and its parent organization, as I 25

A. Yes, and I couldn't even begin to tell you who. I have a visual recollection of a breakfast meeting at the Rivers Club in Pittsburgh at a larger table than just the three of us, but that's -- having eaten hundreds and thousands of breakfasts, seemingly, over my life, I can't recall.

O. What was your impression of the management of AHERF that you did have occasion to meet with?

A. I felt that -- I felt that they were bullying us a bit, that Dave was, you know, in terms of the position he was taking towards the bank, and that was all I recall of that.

Q. What was the position he was taking towards the bank at the time?

A. I don't even recall that. The only reason that I recollect that is that this was a relatively social breakfast. We had a substantial relationship with them, and I thought he was antagonistic which is -- so it was -- it just seemed out of character for the nature of the meeting that we were engaged recall, and that would be about it. It would be more -- about it in terms of what I can recall. There would be more extensive conversation than that, but those are the two that I specifically recall.

Q. At the time did AHERF have any kind of leverage with which to bully PNC?

Q. And you mentioned at some point in time you had a breakfast meeting with David Mc Connell and perhaps Joe Dionisio?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that pretty early on in the relationship or early on in the approval of the loan to DVOG?

A. It wasn't nearly contemporaneous. Oftentimes you would meet a client at or shortly after closing. This would, my recollection is, it would be a year or a year and a half later.

Q. And do you recall what was discussed other than, you know, just getting to know the folks at AHERF?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Was there anything that motivated the meeting other than a desire to get to know the people inside better?

A. That was essentially it on both sides.

 Q. Was anyone else at PNC present at that breakfast meeting?

BY MR. TERUYA: Q. You can answer if you understand.

A. Simply the leverage that any customer has, you know. The normal commercial promise of additional business or removing that business that already existed.

Q. Was AHERF one of the larger accounts that you were involved with at the time?

A. I would need clarification of "larger" and how you would quantify that.

Q. I guess in terms of fees or other types of revenue given to PNC, was AHERF one of the larger accounts?

A. It was clearly not the largest by any extent, and, to wit, I got around and met the larger accounts pretty quickly. I was meeting them substantially later in my tenure.

MS. HACKETT: Did -- when you say, "meeting them," you meant AHERF substantially later?

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. Yes.

MS. HACKETT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: Thank you. But it was not 22 the smallest account, either. So it was a -- an 23

was -- well, he's currently President of PNC's Pittsburgh market. He had a reporting relationship with Dave Cook at one point.

You asked me earlier if there was someone that was between Dave and me, and for a brief period Sy was there, but it was a very brief period. I think I indicated back to you that I thought there might be somebody, and I think he was probably the person, but it was a very brief period, and I couldn't tell you when it was. I don't think it was at the time of approval. Given this May 28th date, he is either there because he was in that slot or because he at that point in time was President of the Pittsburgh market, and this was a Pittsburgh credit, and I can't tell you the answer to which. But it was, I would imagine, one of the two.

- Q. Do you know if Sy Holzer was on the original team that was pitching the DVOG letter of credit issuance?
- A. I'm pretty sure not. Sy is not a -- Sy is more a marketer than a credit type.
- Q. Did he have any responsibility for marketing the DVOG letters of credit?
- A. I would doubt it. It's too complex a transaction for him.

financing, but Sy doesn't have a background in lending, per se, so if you talk to him about, you know, about letters of credit or irrevocable letters of credit and draws on letters of credits, that's beyond his technical expertise.

- Q. And do you know what role Alex Eliason played?
- A. He was an assistant to Frank Krepp. A credit officer but not the senior credit officer. Divisional credit -- what we call a DCO. It's not here. There it is. DCO.
- Q. Do you recall if he had any involvement or started to have increased involvement around the time that certain of the AHERF credits started to run into trouble?
  - A. I don't know.
- 17 Q. Okay. Does looking at -- well, do you 18 recognize this document?
  - A. No.
    - Q. Okay. You can set aside this document.
  - A. Okay.

- Q. What title did he hold back in that time frame from '96 to '98?
  - A. In all likelihood a senior vice president.
- Q. And he sort of resided in the -- you said in the position between Dave Cook and you?
- A. On a -- for a very brief period. He was more on the government side of that business than the healthcare.
- Q. When you say "the government side," what do you mean by that?
- A. Well, the segment at a point in time had both government and education and healthcare. Dave was really the onpoint healthcare expert, and Sy had more of the government activity.
- Q. Are you talking about municipal bond offerings?
- A. No, not municipal bond offerings, because he was not a registered rep, but our relationship with the state of Pennsylvania, city of Pittsburgh, county of Allegheny from a relationship management perspective.
- Q. So was Sy Holzer not involved substantially with lending-type activities?
- A. No. And that's why I say when I -- I don't mean to imply that this is a dramatically-complex

(Whereupon Exhibit-2323, a one-page document with Bates no. 29811, was marked for identification.)

MS. HACKETT: May I hand it to him? MR. TERUYA: Yeah, please. Thank you.

- Q. Let me ask you if you recognize the bottom e-mail on this document which is dated 6-5-98 from Dave Cook to a number of people?
  - A. I do.
  - Q. Could you tell me what you recognize it as?
- A. Just simply an e-mail that was sent internally, you know, informing us of the management change.
- Q. Do you recall any discussions at or around this time about the management change? I.e., the replacement of Sherif Abdelhak by Tony Sanzo?
- A. No, I don't. I recall being personally surprised, but that's all. And that was just a personal opinion.
- Q. Why in your personal view were you surprised at the time about the replacement of Sherif Abdelhak by Tony Sanzo?
- A. I guess I didn't see it coming. That's -- just intellectual curiosity.

- about him. And Tony I knew slightly, you know. And I met him two, three, four times. Something like that. Mostly socially.
- Q. Had you met him in the context of AHERF or in the context of his prior positions at prior Pittsburgh areas offices?
- A. No. I probably would have met him in the AHERF context, you know, and may have even had one 11 meeting with him -- although I don't recall the substance -- but you see people at various events around the city, so --
  - Q. Do you recall ever having any interactions with any of the trustees of AHERF?
- A. I recall, you know, a meeting we held prior 17 to the bankruptcy, you know, over at Allegheny 18 General when we were talking about extending 19 additional credit. I think it was on a Sunday, and 20 we were talking -- the attendees that I recall, you know, were Jim Rohr, Tom Mc Cool, I think, and me and 22 possibly Dave Cook from PNC, Bill Snyder, who is 23 listed here as W.P. and Bob Hernandez from the Board, 24 and it's possible that Tony was there, Joe Dionisio, know, at the time vis-a-vis what we thought was our solution, albeit by the same token bankruptcy was a far better outcome in my estimation than letting it just grind on, you know, without a plan.

- Q. And what was the competing solution that PNC had to bankruptcy?
- A. My recollection was that we were offering additional financing for Allegheny General.
- Q. So there were three options: Either the entity continues as is, the entity goes bankrupt or PNC provides additional financing which could lead to a different result for that entity?
- A. Could, yeah. Could lead to the -- I don't recall this, but we might have been willing to -- we might have by that time foreclosed the salvageability of DVOG itself but were rather trying -- and I think this was the case -- to make sure that the Allegheny General enterprise didn't get drawn into bankruptcy, you know, if avoidable. Might not even have been avoidable. To -- let me go back to your earlier question to make sure that I answered it accurately, because I don't want there to be an implications that PNC thought -- was disappointed, you know that, gee, there was an answer, and it wasn't taken. I don't recall that specifically.

I think, was there.

And the discussion was we were attempting to -- as I recall, we were willing, along with MBIA, to provide financing to the Allegheny General entity to keep it out of bankruptcy. And the gist of our discussion was bankruptcy is very expensive, Allegheny General we think is very stable and sound, and we made our position -- we made our case and left, and that was about the last we heard. So that was not long before bankruptcy -- the AHERF bankruptcy was ultimately declared.

- Q. Do you recall anything about what the trustees and management that you met with of AHERF said in response to your proposal?
- A. No, I really don't. It -- obviously they didn't accept it, you know. They clearly -- I remember Bob Hernandez in particular listened attentatively, but I don't recall any of the discussion thereafter.
- Q. What reaction did the folks at PNC have to the fact that AHERF did not accept the proposal?
- 21 A. The -- the -- we were clearly disappointed. 22 We were trying to figure out a way, you know, to keep 23 this from going into bankruptcy, and when it went 24 into bankruptcy we were disappointed with that, you 25

Page 121 What I do recall is that we were disappointed by the outcome, and the outcome being that the enterprise went bankrupt, went upside down and we lost a lot of money. Now, we'd have been disappointed even -- I think even if our suggestions had been taken so this was not a good situation is the point I want to make.

- Q. All right. Were there any views at the time as to negative consequences of bankruptcy on AGH?
- A. Yes. Our view of bankruptcy on AGH as we expressed to those trustees, was that bankruptcy was an extraordinarily expensive, you know, due to -strictly to the administrative fees attendant to that and an extraordinarily expensive process, and we were attempting to ensure that the trustees really understood that, you know, and -- you know, because we thought that community assets could be dissipated unnecessarily, so --
  - Q. How about with respect to DVOG?
- There was no discussion of DVOG at that meeting, and I was not involved in any DVOG discussions. At least there were no DVOG discussions that I can recall. This was an Allegheny General meeting to my recollection.

- A. Can we go back, if I could, and clarify one thing I said earlier.
  - Q. Sure.

A. The observation I made about the growth-at-any-cost strategy, you know, while I was concerned about it at the time that they were undertaking it, the financial position of the enterprise appeared sufficient to go ahead and do that, so this wasn't a case where we thought we saw the ship going over and upside down.

Q. Did you raise your concerns about the strategy with anyone?

A. No. It wasn't -- again, because it wasn't that dire. That's I think the issue that I wanted to bring forward. I mean, this appeared to be a very well capitalized, very powerful engine, that --AHERF, that I felt was attempting to overreach, and I guess where I'm drawing the distinction, where -- why I wanted to come back to this is while that could be financed and while that could be a viable strategy, I didn't think it was in the best interest of the Speculatively I believe that there was a clash of 1 egos between the two leaders, but that's personal 2 3 opinion.

Q. And in terms of the strategy being pursued by AHERF in the Philadelphia area, did you have any understanding of whether there was an acquisition strategy going on there as well?

A. I did not.

Q. Let me show you what's been previously 9 marked as Exhibit 1819 which is a July 7th, 1998, 10 letter from Tom Mc Cool and David Stevens to members 11 12 of the Board of Trustees of AHERF.

Do you recognize this document?

A. Vaguely.

Q. What do you recognize it as to some extent?

A. It was an effort on our part to reach out, 16 17 I think, through the management of AHERF directly -to communicate directly to the Board.

Q. Is this a communication, if you can tell, 19 relating to the issue you referred to earlier whereby 20 PNC and perhaps MBIA extended additional credit or 21 offered additional credit to AHERF? 22

A. I think so. And I'm so fuzzy on the 23 24 recollection that I don't recall. I think this -- well, no, I can't say. I'm sorry. I just don't want community. I thought the best interest of the community didn't need to have a sole provider of healthcare for a region. It needed to have several providers of healthcare because the power struggle to get from several to one would have, you know, dissipated the assets -- a lot of assets that a lot of people contributed a lot of money to create. So that's the distinction I'd like to make.

Q. Okay. And in this time frame of '97 or so; is that right?

A. Uh-huh.

O. Were there other institutions, healthcare institutions, that PNC had dealings with that were pursuing aggressive acquisition strategies?

A. UPMC, clearly.

Q. Do you know if these -- did you have any understanding of what was motivating the acquisition strategies of AHERF and -- or UPMC?

A. I had a speculative belief but no understanding.

Q. I think earlier you said those two in institutions were competing with each other; is that --

A. That was a speculative belief, yes, and I think there was some grounding for that.

to guess at it.

Q. You see the last paragraph on the first 2 3 page?

Q. Says, "Moreover, at a time when the AHERF system had already manifested serious financial problems, the Board nevertheless allowed the withdrawal from the AHERF system in April 1998 of almost 90 million to repay, and thereby prefer as to all other creditors, Mellon Bank" --10

A. Yes.

Q. -- "an action which drained the AHERF 12 13 system of desperately needed liquidity at a critical juncture"? 14

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Does looking at that refresh your 16 17 recollection as to any issues that related to the repayment by AHERF of a line of credit to Mellon 18 19 Bank?

 A. I recall only the allegation of a 20 21 preferential payment and the dealing, you know, by 22 certain directors of AHERF who were insiders at

23 Mellon with preferential repayment, that's -- and 24 I -- the -- the details surrounding that are so fuzzy

25 in my mind anymore, I remember the issue but not much

Page 137

mara than that more than that.

- Q. Okay. Do you know when that issue came to your attention just in terms of the bankruptcy? Before or after the bankruptcy?
- A. It became very definitely before, and you can see so stated in this letter.
- Q. Do you recall who raised those allegations to your attention?
- A. The -- who raised the allegation or the fact that repayment was made?
- Q. The allegation or who was making the allegation?
  - A. I don't recall.
- Q. Do you know if any people inside of PNC were focussing on the question of whether Mellon Bank was the recipient of a preferential payment?
  - A. Yes, we were.
- Q. Do you know for what purpose folks were evaluating that question?
- A. Well, we felt -- I think it's stated here that that payment drained the liquidity from the system and in fact necessitated the -- had that loan remained outstanding and that amount of liquidity in the system it might not have been necessary to put this sort of credit in place. At least for a period made the question simple.

Q. You said that -- I know you earlier just a moment ago corrected your statement about the bankruptcy being inevitable.

Did you have any view at or around this point in time in July 1998 as to whether the bankruptcy was inevitable?

- A. Didn't think that it was inevitable because had we thought it was inevitable, we wouldn't have put this offer in place. You know, we thought that there was -- it was the potential to work through this, but yet we felt, too, it would be very challenging.
  - Q. Okay.

In terms of the repayment to Mellon Bank, did you believe at the time that that was a contributor to the bankruptcy of AHERF?

- A. Only in that it drained liquidity, you know, from the system.
  - Q. Okay. You can set aside that document.
- A. Okay. Looks like a trip down memory lane here, and I'm realizing I don't have much.
- Q. Let me show you what's been previously marked as Exhibit No. 1820 which was a July 11, 1998, letter from Richard Weill of MBIA to the members of

of time.

- Q. Did you formulate any view at the time of your own as to whether the repayment was injurious to recovery by other creditors?
- A. Well, it looked to me -- and not being a lawyer or, as has been previously pointed out, a C.P.A., you know, but it looked to me as though this was a preferential payment and that in the event that the inevitable happened here -- I take that back. Inevitable is a poor word choice. In the event that what actually happened happened is what I meant to say that in fact there would be a claim of preferential treatment against Mellon.
- Q. At this point in time did you have any view just from a business or economic standpoint as to whether the repayment of $90 million was detrimental to the recovery of other creditors?
- A. There was no question that in our belief that it was.
- Q. And who -- do you know who looked into that question of just the economics of the repayment?
- A. Well, that was -- that would have been part of -- that wasn't a hard one to look at because there was an obvious need for additional liquidity here, and money had just gone out the door to someone so it

1 the Board of Trustees of AHERF.

A. That -- he was the one that we dealt with, because as I mentioned previously, it was I thought the president of MBIA, so --

Q. And let me ask you if you recognize this letter.

A. No, I don't. I'm not sure I ever saw this. I'm not sure I didn't, either, but I --

- Q. Do you see just the last paragraph, it says, "We strongly urge you to consider the sale of the entire AHERF system" --
  - A. Uh-huh.
- Q. -- "and to contact us regarding the provision of interim financing during the process of sale"? And then it says, "as we have indicated previously, we stand ready to meet with the entire Board or designated group thereof at any time?"

Do you recall that issue or the issue of the sale or possible sale of the entire AHERF system ever coming up?

- A. No. No, but it may have been that I just wasn't involved in that aspect of the conversations. I don't think it would have been possible, but --
  - Q. What do you base that statement on?
  - A. Just my own opinion.

MS. HACKETT: Can I stop you for a minute? I don't understand.

Is there a particular subject matter for which he would have referred to the written documentation? Am I missing something in this?

MR. TERUYA: With respect to healthcare matters.

- Q. Other than the healthcare policies, perhaps examples of which we've seen today, were there any other types of documents you would have referred to from time to time in making credit-type decisions with respect to healthcare?
- A. No, other than borrower-specific information.

- A. Yeah. My understanding of the financial statements and of GAP.
  - Q. As a non-C.P.A.?
  - A. As a non-C.P.A., correct.
- Q. And was that belief or knowledge formed just on your own personal review without assistance from others of the financial statements?

Page 152

- A. I don't recall.
- Q. And even if you don't recall the particular items, do you recall anything about even what areas those violations might have related to?
- Q. Do you recall who you might have had any discussions with about such violations?
- A. No. Most of -- most of the -- as I stated earlier, most of the energy that I put toward this at the time was really prospective. How do we keep this thing from -- on the rail, so to speak. There isn't a lot -- when you're in a crisis mode like this, there isn't a lot of, gee, how did we get here? There is, you know, typically forensic accounting work done, you know. But the first thrust of that is to find out what's real in the balance sheet and

Do you know if there was any established practice or procedure at PNC in how to respond to noncompliance or defaults with debt agreement obligations?

- Q. Do you personally know as you sit here today of any GAP violations in any AHERF or DVOG financial statements? And when I say "personally know," I mean not from news articles or people telling you things, but just from your own personal knowledge.
- A. It's been so long that I believe I do, but I can't cite what they are, so -- I believe I had knowledge of them at one point, but I honestly can't remember what they are.
- Q. Do you know what your knowledge was based on at some point even if you can't recall particular examples?

  - A. I don't.
- Q. Do you personally know of any failure of Coopers & Lybrand to comply with the contract with AHERF and/or its affiliates?
- A. Wouldn't know what that contract is, so I would have no way of knowing.
  - Q. Okay.

Do you personally know of any failure by Coopers & Lybrand to expose AHERF's deteriorating financial condition, violations of areas that covenants, deficient financial controls and/or AHERF senior officials' financial manipulations?

- A. I don't know specifically.
- O. Do you have any general knowledge of that 19 20 topic?
  - A. No. None that bears mention. Speculation.

- Q. Do you personally know of any steps that any trustees of AHERF or its affiliates could have taken that would have in fact halted AHERF's financial demise?
  - A. No.
- O. Do you personally know of any steps that anyone could have taken that would in fact have halted AHERF's financial demise?

Q. Do you personally know what steps, if any, any creditors of AHERF or its affiliates, including PNC, would in fact have taken if they had had

I'm trying to ask is, you know, why is it that you can't say sitting here today what would the outcome have been?

A. Well, if the outcome is in terms of would AHERF ultimately file bankruptcy -- this is the way I interpreted it -- would they ultimately file bankruptcy or not, you know, I don't know that.

You know, Would it be likely that we would have done something -- we, PNC, I can't speak for other creditors -- but that we PNC would have done something along the lines of accelerating the debt, you know, I think it's very likely.

- Q. So you think --
- A. Declaring a default and/or when I say accelerating the debt, that's kind of the end statement. But, you know, threatening to declare a default, you know, and, for instance, causing the $90 million not to be paid to Mellon Bank.
  - Q. Let me ask you in steps.

Do you think that declaring a default and actually accelerating rather than threatening to accelerate the debt would have been the outcome?

A. I think that threatening a default, you know, probably would have, you know, caused a different outcome. Declaring a default and additional financial information about AHERF's financial condition or its affiliate's financial condition at an earlier point in time?

A. I think safe to say that had we known this earlier, you know, the -- there would have been, you know, very active discussion around either restructuring the debt in some form or fashion or accelerating repayment. The timeliness of information here is of real import to a creditor.

- Q. Do you know what would have been the outcome of those discussions in fact?
- A. I don't know because we didn't have the information at that time.
- Q. So sitting here today it's impossible to speculate or it would be just speculation --MR. COGAN: Objection.

BY MR. TERUYA:

Q. -- as to what would have happened? MS. HACKETT: It would be speculation as to what would happen? I don't understand the question. THE WITNESS: Yeah.

MS. HACKETT: What are you asking him? BY MR. TERUYA:

Q. You said you couldn't say today what would 24 have been the outcome of the discussions, and what 25 accelerating the debt definitely would have brought about a different outcome for the secured creditors.

Q. Okay. Let me back this up.

Do you know what PNC in fact would have done as between restructuring the debt, accelerating the debt, or something else?

- A. No because we didn't have the information at that time, and I can't put myself back to the point in time where I would have the information, so --
  - Q. Okay.

And in terms of declaring a default, do you know in fact what would have been the effect if PNC had declared a default in terms of how things would have unfolded at AHERF?

A. No. And I think that was the question I tried to answer earlier.

MS. HACKETT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: No. I can't say that we know that specifically.

21 BY MR. TERUYA:

- Q. And likewise, do you know in fact what 22 would have been the effect if PNC had declared a 23 default and then accelerated the debt? 24

- O. I said, likewise, do you know what would have been the effect in fact if PNC had declared a default and then accelerated the debt in terms of how things would have unfolded?
  - A. No. I don't know, you know.
- Q. And earlier you mentioned the possibility of stopping the repayment to Mellon Bank.
  - A. Just as one potential outcome.
  - Q. How would that have been effectuated?
- A. Well, the -- by -- you know, by -- and again, this is a -- just simply an example, you know, but by notifying the management and potentially the Board that an event of default existed and would not be waived, the management of the Board would have been crazy to pay $90 million to yet another creditor when the gun is held to your head by one creditor.

So I suspect what would have happened there is that Mellon and PNC would have threatened default, and everyone would have come to the table together as a workout.

- Q. Do you know when is the earliest date that PNC could have declared an effect of default with respect to the DVOG letters of credit?
  - A. I don't.

Q. Okay. Do you know -- I think we covered this with respect to particular examples, but do you know what in fact would have been the effect, if any, of any steps that any creditors of AHERF's affiliates could have taken?

MS. HACKETT: Other than what he's already testified to?

MR. TERUYA: Yeah.

  - A. No, I don't.

  - Q. So given the passage of time --
- Q. -- you don't have knowledge today as you 21 22 sit here?

MR. TERUYA: What was the objection about that question, just out of curiosity, to make sure I didn't misstate something?

MR. COGAN: I'm objecting to the form of it and the foundation of it.

MR. TERUYA: Okay.

MR. COGAN: And more particularly, he's never read the credit instruments. You're asking him for a legal conclusion as to when they could have first declared a default. He doesn't know the underlying documentation, so I don't know how he can make that determination, and do when you can first declare a default in my view does -- at least the way vou asked it -- calls for a legal conclusion. I hope that helps.

MR, TERUYA: Okay.

MR. COGAN: Since you asked.

MR. TERUYA: I did ask.

- Q. Did anyone -- did you have any understanding of your own as to when PNC could declare an event of default?
- A. No. Does that tell you -- from the vantage point that -- I had never read the legal agreement.

discovering the true financial statement of affairs in the AHERF system?

A. I don't.

- Q. Do you have any personal knowledge of any conduct of Coopers & Lybrand that aided in preventing the immediate implementation of effective measures in time to reverse the decline in AHERF's financial condition?
- Q. Do you know personally of any inaccuracies revealed in AHERF's financial statements that had a material and negative effect on the sale price of certain AHERF affiliates?
  - A. I don't, but I'm not sure I would have been close enough to it to know. But I don't know.
    - Q. Okay.

Do you know whether -- personally know whether if any creditors of AHERF or its affiliates, including PNC, had had additional information about AHERF's financial condition -- I'm sorry. Let me start over, then.

MR. TERUYA: Okay.

THE WITNESS: It's a lack of understanding on my part.

- Q. Do you personally know if any decrease in AHERF's income or assets for fiscal years '96 or '97 would in fact have caused bond holders, credit enhancers or other creditors to have acted any differently?
  - A. I have a strong belief that had the, you approval decision, what other effects, if any, would be -- any change in the financial statements in fact have caused among creditors?

- A. Including PNC or --
- Q. Including PNC.

A. Yeah. The -- the -- it's entirely likely that that would have made the, you know -- any covenant violation, any waiver discussions, you know, much more difficult for the company. You know, that there would have been, you know, far stronger pressure to restructure, you know; far stronger pressure to limit expenses and to really right the ship from an operating perspective.

We had a misconception of what the hospital looked like from an operating perspective.

- Q. And do you know what particular steps PNC would have taken?
- A. I don't really know because we weren't confronted with that issue.
  - Q. Okay.

Do you know what effect in fact a restructuring would have had if it had occurred at an earlier point in time?

A. Well, I don't know in fact, but I would observe that it -- it probably would have improved know, financial results been reported at that point in time that the debt ratings would not have remained at the level that they were, and I think that would have had an impact on all of the above.

- Q. Do you know whether in fact the debt rating would have been affected?
- A. I don't know it for a hard fact because I'm not Moody's or Standard and Poors, but I'm very confident that it would have been.
- Q. And what would in fact have been the effect in any change of the debt rating?
- A. Depending on the time, I know certainly had it been -- had it occurred prior to our approval, had the debt been noninvestment grade, you know, it's possible that we wouldn't have approved, you know, that credit. It is likely that we wouldn't have approved it in that size, you know.
- Q. Do you have any recollection as you sit here today of the chronology of the approval of the DVOG letters of credit versus the issuance of the fiscal year '96 financial statement?
  - A. I don't recall.
  - Q. Okay.

In addition or other than or setting aside the possible ramifications with respect to the the operating cash flow of the organization.

- Q. Did you ever perform any retrospective study of any of these issues of what, you know, could have been different in terms of the operations at AHERF --
  - A. I did not.
  - Q. -- if different steps had been taken?
    - A. I did not, no.
- Q. Do you personally know of or would your answer be the same to the question do you personally know if any decrease in DVOG's income or assets for for fiscal years '96 or '97 would in fact have caused bond holders, credit enhancers, or other creditors to have acted any differently?
  - A. Same answer.
- Q. Do you personally know if any decreases in AHERF's or DVOG's income or assets for fiscal years '96 or '97 would in fact have caused any covenant violations?
  - A. I don't know.
  - Q. Do you personally know what steps, if any, any creditor of AHERF or its affiliates would in fact have taken in response to learning of a covenant violation?
    - A. I don't know. If you're talking about creditors including PNC, I, again, go back to my earlier comment of much more difficult and attentive, you know, discussion around waivers.

- Q. Would your answer still be that you can't say what specific actions PNC would in fact have taken?
- A. Only by virtue of the fact that it -- since it didn't happen, I can't tell you exactly what we would have done. I can tell you that in a general sense we would have gone in and worked very closely, you know, with the company to shore up their operating cash flow which could have included the introduction of a crisis manager, for instance, as a mechanism to try and preserve and ultimately build -- preserve cash in and ultimately build the cash flow of, you know, the AHERF entity.
  - O. What's a crisis manager?
- A. Crisis manager would be a consultant experienced in turnarounds.
- Q. Was any recommendation ever made with respect to AHERF as things actually unfolded in terms of appointing a turnaround expert or consultant of some sort?
  - A. That's really a question for Tom Mc Cool.
  - Q. Have you ever had any role or involvement are really driven by the particular circumstances atthe time.

- Q. Can you say what the effects in fact would have been of any of those particular steps?
- A. Historically, you know, those are very successful at preserving cash in the estate, enhancing the liquidity of the enterprise and, in many cases, averting bankruptcy.

For instance, to -- and we talked earlier about, you know, money that in hindsight looks silly, corporate boxes at stadiums, et cetera. A crisis manager would come in, identify that and eliminate it, and that cash, therefore, never gets spent. So that's the sort of thing that can occur.

- Q. And do you know what in fact would have been the outcome of any such steps in this instance with respect to AHERF?
- A. I don't know because again we didn't have the opportunity to do that.
- Q. Who are the crisis managers, if you know, that PNC deals with?
  - A. Again, I'd refer you to Tom Mc Cool because he's the actual party in charge there.
  - Q. Do you personally know what steps, if any, any creditor of AHERF or its affiliates, including or did you ever have any role or involvement as CEO of the corporate banking area in appointing a turnaround expert or consultant?

A. Yes. We -- that's -- and actually Tom Mc Cool does that, but that's a fairly standard practice, you know, within the commercial banking industry and introducing crisis managers hired by the company, you know, for -- to -- to work -- to bring about financial resolution.

Q. Once as you mentioned some of the problems at AHERF became apparent to people at PNC, do you know if in fact someone was hired as a turnaround consultant?

MS. HACKETT: I believe you asked him that. MR. TERUYA: I asked if there was any consideration of it, and he said Tom Mc --

MS, HACKETT: Yeah. Okay.

THE WITNESS: And same answer. I just don't know whether it happened or not.

MR. TERUYA: Okay.

- Q. In addition to the possibility of hiring a crisis manager, are there any other specific steps that you know PNC would in fact have taken or might have taken?
  - A. Well, there are a whole host of steps that PNC, would in fact have taken in the event that a default would have been declared?

A. Again, I don't know with absolute certainty, but it would run the range, you know, from -- if an event of default had been declared, my guess is it would be acceleration.

Now, if an event had been -- had been threatened but not declared, it might be different.

- Q. Are you equating the event of default being declared or an event of default being declared an indecision to accelerate?
- A. Well, the -- if you think through the chain of events, a situation occurs, a default occurs which can go, you know, one of three ways: It can be cured; it can be waived, or it can be declared. I took your question from the very narrowest sense because once declared, it means, typically, that you and the borrower have acknowledged that you're going to disagree, and, you know, that you're not willing to work together and in a high percentage of declared defaults, you know, there is an acceleration. So it may simply be the form of the question that you asked. If the -- and again, I go back to that event of default which can be dealt with in one of three

- Q. One of which is to declare a formal capital E, capital D event of default?
  - A. Correct.
  - O. And then likely to accelerate?
- A. Right.
  - Q. Do you know if there are possible remedies or steps that PNC could take, competing steps PNC could take once a formal event of default is declared?
  - A. There are, but they're relatively limited, you know. That's -- the declaration of a formal event of default is a very serious issue.
  - Q. Do you know whether during calendar '98 before the bankruptcy any other creditors of AHERF or its affiliates declared a formal event of default?
    - A. I don't know.
  - Q. Do you know what steps, if any, PNC would in fact have taken if another entity creditor had declared a formal event of default?
  - A. I don't know because I don't know the answer to the first question, so that's -- that there would have been an outcome there that would have -- that we would have continued to pursue.

Now, concurrently, had there been a qualified opinion, the credit never would have gotten investment grade status from Moody's and Standard & Poors, and that -- if you think back to my earlier comments, the two of the necessary conditions for me to sign approving this, one was an investment-grade status, and the other was an unqualified opinion. The absence of the unqualified opinion brings about the absence of the investment-grade rating, and it's a nonstarter.

- Q. Do you have any understanding of what was the chronological relationship between Coopers & Lybrand's issuance of an audit opinion on the fiscal year '96 financial statements of AHERF and its affiliates with respect to the approval decision?
- A. No. That -- I think that was asked previously, and I do not.
- Q. Do you personally know what the effects of any steps that any creditor of AHERF or its affiliates could have taken in response to a -- to

Q. Okay.

Do you personally know what steps, if any, any creditor of AHERF or its affiliates would in fact have taken if Coopers & Lybrand had issued an unqualified opinion on any AHERF or DVOG financial statements?

- A. An unqualified opinion?
- Q. I'm sorry. A qualified opinion.
- A. I thought so, because I didn't --
- O. I'm sorry. 10

A. Yes. At that point that is a severe red 12 flag, you know. It is -- I can't recall in my 13 career, you know, where I have made a loan or 14 approved a loan to an entity -- a new loan. And 15 sometimes you have to renew loans that are 16 outstanding, but a new loan to an entity that has a 17 qualified opinion.

The -- we would have immediately, had we 19 even considered -- continued to consider extending 20 credit, you know, we would have immediately contacted 21 with the company's approval Coopers and tried to get 22 to the very bottom of what it was, you know, that 23 caused them to issue that qualified opinion, you 24 know.

It's -- it's challenging to me to think learning of a GAP violation would have been? 1

A. It would be speculative on my part.

- Q. Do you personally know what would the effect have been of any steps of any creditor of AHERF or its affiliates could have taken in response to learning of any material misstatement in the financial statements of AHERF or any of its affiliates?
- A. Well, the -- let me ask, are you including any creditor, including PNC?
- Q. Yes.

A. You've asked that in some questions and not others.

The -- then let me amend that because either a GAP violation or, you know, a material misstatement would likely be a violation of the covenants which again, as you know, I'm no expert in the documentation of this particular transaction, but as part of boilerplate, you know, you would have material misstatement and GAP violations, typically, you know, and that would have led to a covenant default, you know, and -- or the existence of an event of default that could have been declared a capital letters event of default and with the potential for acceleration thereafter.

MS. HACKETT: Other than what he's already testified to?

THE WITNESS: Yeah. That's really kind of the same thing I just said, you know. The -- there would have been a very intensive, you know, discussion with the company and with Coopers & Lybrand, you know, and the -- you know, the potential, you know, for the declaration of an event of default, you know, out of -- capital letters event of default out of that condition of default. BY MR. TERUYA:

- Q. Do you know what the effect would have been of any steps that could have been taken?
- A. The -- I don't know specifically, but, you know, again, probably a restructuring of the credit, the hiring of a crisis manager, potentially, you know. A step along those lines.
- Q. Do you know whether a crisis manager in fact would have been able to successfully avert AHERF's bankruptcy?

consequence is -- actually, let me strike that. Do you personally know whether the term "unrestricted fund balance" in any letter of credit agreement between PNC and AHERF in fact excludes intercompany loans?

MS. HACKETT: Can I have that back, please? BY MR. TERUYA:

Q. Do you personally know whether the term "unrestricted fund balance" in any letter of credit agreement between PNC and AHERF in fact excludes intercompany loans?

MS. HACKETT: Objection. Lack of foundation. He has to look at the documents to know that.

THE WITNESS: You took the words out of my mouth.

"objection" and "foundation," but I am not familiar 19 with the letter of credit documents. 20

of the bankrupt AHERF's estate's net in solvency? 25

Page 175

- A. I don't know whether a crisis manager would have been able to avert the bankruptcy, but I'm highly confident a crisis manager would have caused the creditors to result in a higher realization on their claims. That -- of that I have a very, very high degree of confidence.
  - Q. What's the basis for your belief?
- A. His- -- just seeing countless situations of similar nature. Professional experience.
- Q. What -- do you have any sense of what the quantitative effects would have been in terms of realization by creditors?
  - A. I'm not close enough to it to know.
- Q. Do you personally know what would have been the quantitative effect of any steps that PNC or other creditors could have taken in response to learning of material misstatements or GAP violations?
  - A. It would be speculation on my part.
- Q. Did you ever perform any studies or do you know of anyone performing any studies of what creditors' recovery could have been under different scenarios as things unfolded at AHERF?
- A. I'm not aware of any. Doesn't mean they 23 24 don't exist.
  - Q. Do you personally know what the particular

A. No.

Q. Do you know who was charged, if anyone, with monitoring that -- the present extent of the bankrupt estate's net in solvency?

MS. HACKETT: I was going to say you mean PNC or beyond that, but I don't think he knows either

> MR. TERUYA: I just meant PNC. THE WITNESS: No.

11 BY MR. TERUYA:

O. Have you had any conversations with any lawyers with Jones Day before this deposition?

MS. HACKETT: Relating to the deposition; correct?

MR. TERUYA: Yeah. In relating to the deposition.

THE WITNESS: No. I was going to say I had a conversation with Mickey Pohl, I think, back in 1994, but it wasn't about AHERF.

factor which may fall within that category of mitigating the fact that AHERF was not guaranteeing the debt?

MR. TERUYA: Objection.

THE WITNESS: It could quite possibly. It would depend on -- on comparable rates of growth.

Just as the fact that the operating margin in your prior question is an excessive industry average is -- typically indicates that DVOG in this case had a -- was a lower cost operator than its competitors. You know, that's a positive.

If you told me that revenues were growing 7.6 percent in an environment where everyone else's were growing at 20 percent, I would tell you that's a negative.

If in fact, however, revenues were growing at a pace, you know, that exceeded the competition and EBITDA margins were stronger here, then that's a very good sign.

growing is typically viewed by you as a lender as a 1 2 positive fact?

A. Yes.

Q. And then you'll notice under category seven where it says, "current financial strength."

Do you see that, "strength" --

A. Yes, Uh-huh.

O. And it indicates in the second sentence,

"At 1-31-96 cash and board designated assets totaled 59.7 million."

A. Yes.
